

JURY SECURED TO TRY ROBERT C. LINGAFELTER

Prosecutor Fitzgibbon Stated His Case to the Jury, Followed by the Defense, the Latter Saying They Expected to Prove Young Lingafelter's Innocence.

Ever since the indictments have been returned against the Lingafelter family, the remark has been frequently heard, "Well, they will have a hard time to get a jury in this county to try any of them."

The trial of Robert C. Lingafelter, charged with forgery, was called Monday afternoon.

The young defendant was in his place where court convened and after the disposition of several motions, and affidavits, the indictment was read to him by Deputy Clerk E. M. Larason.

Robert looked much stronger than he did when on trial at Mt. Vernon a year ago. The death-like pallor of his face was gone, and his entire demeanor showed a marked physical improvement.

After the reading of the indictment he was asked by Judge Maxwell to plead and in a voice heard distinctly in every corner of the room, replied "not guilty."

The examination of veniremen then began.

The preliminary proceedings in the Robert Lingafelter forgery case, went very slowly Monday afternoon. The selection of the jury had only begun at 5 o'clock Monday, when court adjourned.

After the filing of an affidavit by the attorneys for the defense, demanding the presence, as important witnesses, of F. G. Warden, now in Europe, Herman Lang of Cincinnati and James Passman; the prosecutor agreed to accept the testimony of the three absent witnesses. After considerable discussion the selection of the jury was begun.

The court, deeming the case of sufficient importance, appointed Judge S. M. Hunter to assist in the prosecution.

The following jurors were called: George Handley, C. E. Dicken, J. C. Morrison, Noah Andregg, W. H. Anderson, Jr., C. W. Martin, David McIntosh, Ira Beaver, S. A. Mears, M. A. Thompson, Milton Irwin and Richard Conine. W. H. Anderson asked to be excused on the grounds that at the beginning of the case he was sheriff of the county and served a number of papers in that capacity. He was excused, and H. P. Green was called instead.

The defense challenged George Handley, who upon examination, stated that his wife was a depositor in the bank, and was disqualified owing to this fact. Samuel Sommers was called in his place.

C. E. Dicken, residing six miles south of the city was sworn and stated in the examination that he had been a depositor in the bank at one time, but not at the time the bank suspended.

Noah Andregg was also examined and although stating that his wife had been depositor in the institution several years previous to its suspension, he stated that he did not believe his decision would be biased by that fact.

C. W. Martin was examined, after which David McIntosh was questioned and passed. Ira Beaver was disqualified owing to his having a case in the courts with Judge S. M. Hunter as his counsel, and Harry Graves of Croton was called. S. A. Mears was then examined and passed. M. A. Thompson of Jersey township followed and qualified. Milton Irwin in the examination stated that his wife and son were depositors in the bank at the time of its suspension, and was excused. E. L. Emswiler was called in his place and having formed an opinion regarding the case was excused. Richard Conine was next examined and followed by Samuel Sommers. Harry P. Green was next examined.

SKIN FROM FIVE YOUNG MEN SUCCESSFULLY GRAFTED ON GOIN'S FACE

Mt. Vernon, Feb. 6.—Five young colored men of this city cheerfully underwent a painful operation Sunday afternoon in order that Fred Goin of North Sandusky street may go through life without a terrible disfigurement to his face, the result of terrible burns sustained at the Cooper works some weeks ago.

The operation, known as skin-grafting, was performed by Dr. James F. Lee of Mt. Vernon, Sunday, at the home of Mr. Fred Goin. Five young colored men offered to give up a portion of skin from their arms which was removed by the surgeon and carefully grafted on the face of Mr. Goin. The patient is getting along nicely and there will be no disfigurement on his face the result of the burns.

Harry Graves of Croton followed and was passed.

E. L. Emswiler was challenged by the defense and was excused. G. W. Chapin of Fallsbury township, was called in his place, and stated that he was a depositor in the Lingafelter bank, but was passed for cause.

Noah Andregg was excused peremptorily by the State. Jesse Baldwin was called and examined, after being sworn, and stated that he had partly formed an opinion. At this point the prosecution objected to the leading questions of the examination, by Mr. Smythe, to which the court stated that an objection of the sort in the examination of a juror, was unusual, but after a further examination, excused the juror, and S. G. Foos was called in his place.

Foos was challenged for cause by the defendant, but the challenge was overruled by the court. Peremptory challenge by the defendant was asked for and C. E. Dicken was excused by the court. The panel was exhausted, the last witness having been drawn.

The court's order for the sheriff to draw an extra jury was objected to by the defense, the exception being that the extra juror should be drawn from the wheel.

The witnesses in the case of Ohio vs. James F. Lingafelter were examined until Monday, February 12, after which court was adjourned for noon.

At the Tuesday afternoon session of the Lingafelter trial a large number of spectators were present. The desk occupied by the defense was the principal center of attraction during the selection of the jurors. Beside the three attorneys, the Lingafelter family, composed of James F. Lingafelter, Mary Lingafelter and Robert C. Lingafelter, occupied this desk. Of the extra jurors drawn, L. M. Stockberger was called and challenged for cause, by the defense, which challenge was overruled by the court after an examination. After the court called for peremptory challenge the defense excused S. G. Foos and W. O. Holler was called. After an examination Mr. Holler qualified.

The complete jury was sworn at 1:50 o'clock, and is composed of J. C. Morrison, C. W. Martin, David McIntosh, S. A. Mears, M. A. Thompson, Richard Conine, Samuel Sommers, G. W. Chapin, Harry Graves, Harry P. Green, L. M. Stockberger and W. O. Holler.

After reading the indictment charging Robert Lingafelter with forging the name of Theo. Taylor to receipts on two different occasions, to the amount, in total of $75.00, one of these occasions being September 27, 1899.

The prosecutor in addressing the jury stated that the witnesses for the state would show by their testimony that receipts purporting to be signed by Theo. Taylor, Robert E. Lumm, Flora Wood and Mrs. Whitecamp, were signed by young Lingafelter, when neither of the four above mentioned had paid the amounts to the bank. Sarah Teasaf was also claimed by the prosecution, as having two transactions with the bank, and charging Robert C. Lingafelter with having forged the name of Sarah Teasaf. Thos. D. Lloyd, Josephine Armstrong, and William C. Armstrong, the latter who is unknown, are others named by the prosecutor.

The attorneys for the defense objected to the reference to the other cases, claiming that the one charge, that of Theo. Taylor, is the one now on trial and that the defendant has nothing more to say than has already been stated in the case, namely, that he is not guilty of the charge.

At 2:30 a short recess was taken before the introduction of the testimony of the witnesses.

ing, was performed by Dr. James F. Lee of Mt. Vernon, Sunday, at the home of Mr. Fred Goin. Five young colored men offered to give up a portion of skin from their arms which was removed by the surgeon and carefully grafted on the face of Mr. Goin. The patient is getting along nicely and there will be no disfigurement on his face the result of the burns.

PROF. W. G. TIGHT SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AN EXPLOSION

DETAILS OF THE ACCIDENT NOT YET RECEIVED IN NEWARK

And Nothing Further is Known than
What is Told in a Press Dispatch.

A special to Columbus under a Newark date line, tells of the serious injury of Prof. W. G. Tight, president of the University of New Mexico. No one in the city has been able to obtain any information other than that contained in the following special:

"Word was received here today from Albuquerque, N. M., that President W. G. Tight of the New Mexico university, was seriously injured yesterday by an explosion of gasoline, while experimenting in his laboratory, and up to late today had not regained consciousness. One of his cars was torn off and he was otherwise horribly mutilated. His recovery is said to be doubtful.

"Professor Tight, who was a former member of the Denison university faculty, was a prominent instructor and investigator of geology. Until six years ago he taught at Denison, where he was graduated in 1887. He was born and raised in Granville.

"Professor Tight went west six years ago. His wife was formerly Miss Arabella Guy of Newark. She was divorced from him last summer on the ground of wilful absence. She resides at Granville with their three children. She was awarded $75 per month alimony.

Granville people who are greatly interested in the case, know nothing more about the matter and the information was conveyed to several members of the Denison faculty by an Advocate reporter at midnight Monday. Mrs. Tight, who was divorced from the professor last summer, knew nothing of the accident. No word has been received from Albuquerque concerning Professor Tight's condition.

HEADLESS BODY OF SUICIDE

Found on Mountainside by a Hunter.
No Clue by Which He Could be Identified.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6.—The headless body of an unknown man was found on the mountainside near Mountain Park by a hunter today. About 20 yards from the body lay the head, devoid of flesh, with a bullet hole in the center of the forehead. A pistol with one chamber empty was also found. In the pocket of the clothing was found a ticket from Charleston, W. Va., to Bristol, Va., dated Jan. 4, 1892, a gold watch and a membership card of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the name on which was obliterated. Near the body was a portion of an iron gray wig. There was absolutely nothing by which he could be identified. The coroner's jury decided that death was due to suicide. It is supposed that the head was detached from the body by wild animals.

NEGRO RETURNED UNDER GUARD

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 6.—Edward Johnson, the negro accused of criminal assault, was brought here at an early hour this morning from Nashville, where he had been kept in the Davidson county jail since the day on which the mob assaulted the county jail here, accompanied by the sheriff and deputies. He was rushed into a patrol wagon and hurried to the county jail. A platoon of mounted police formed an escort. Immediately after he was lodged behind the bars, platoons of police were placed on guard at each street corner around the jail with orders to forbid the passage of any person to the jail in order to prevent further mob violence. A special jury is being impaneled and Johnson will be given a speedy trial. His attorneys are attempting to prove an alibi.

BADGE OF HONOR Is a Soldier's or Sailor's Uniform, De- clares the President.

Washington, Feb. 6.—In a letter to Secretary Taft, President Roosevelt declares that "the uniform of the enlisted man (of the army or navy) is a badge of honor, and that it entitles the wearer 'to peculiar considerations.'" Secretary Taft transmitted the proceedings of the court-martial of Lieutenant Royal Taylor, who was reduced twelve times for unbecoming conduct toward an enlisted man of his command. A sergeant of his company occupied a seat at a theater in front of Taylor. At the latter's request or direction, the sergeant moved to another part of the house. The court-martial followed.

ELLIS WILL SIFT CHARGES WEDNESDAY

Wholesale Grocers' Association Will Get a Hearing—Probing the Bridge Pool.

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Attorney General Ellis and Thomas B. Hogsett of Cleveland, yesterday discussed certain features of the bridge trust investigation which is to begin today, when depositions will be taken bearing upon the operations of the combine in this state.

Judge Hogsett was attorney in a bridge trust case at Lorain and is interested in the outcome of the ouster suit instituted by the attorney general some time ago.

When it was sought weeks ago to take the deposition of some of the members of the alleged combine before George W. Dope as a notary public, they declined to answer any and all questions which would throw any light upon the operations, and the investigation at that time was blocked in this way. It now remains to be seen whether the attorney general will be any more successful.

Attorney General Ellis on Wednesday will give the Cincinnati and Ohio Wholesale Grocers' association a hearing on the charge that they have formed an unlawful combination in restriction of trade. The action was originally started by the Eldridge & Higgins Co., of Columbus.

MISSOURI HAS ASKED FOR DELAY

Counsel Wants Justice Gildersleeve to Await Decision of the Missouri
Court.

New York, Feb. 6.—Henry Woolman, counsel for the state of Missouri, in the matter of the proceedings brought by Attorney Hadley against the Standard Oil company, appeared before Justice Gildersleeve in the Supreme court Monday to ask that no order be entered by the court in the recent proceedings against Henry H. Rogers until after the decision of the Supreme court of Missouri, which is expected soon. Mr. Woolman said that both sides had asked in their briefs, submitted several weeks ago, that the matter be held in abeyance until after the Missouri decision. Counsel for Mr. Rogers opposed Mr. Woolman's application. Justice Gildersleeve took the matter under advisement.

TO WARD OFF BIG COAL STRIKE

New York, Feb. 6.—The members of the National Coal Federation will endeavor to prevail upon President Roosevelt to lead his power and influence in the settlement of the threatened coal miners strike, which is declared to be a vital one, involving the welfare of 50,000 miners. The matter remains deadlocked, a member of the committee said today, until February 15, when President Mitchell of the miners is expected to confer with

EAT CANDY FOR TIRED FEELING

New York, Feb. 6.—If you get that tired feeling of a pound of candy, or take a dose of cooking soda. This is what Prof. L. S. Lee advised in a lecture given to the biology section of the Academy of Science last night at the American Museum of Natural History. Lee said that there were three acids in blood which caused or increased fatigue. "When one is very tired," he said, "a quantity of candy will, in half an hour after eating, often make one feel very energetic."

Fire completely destroyed the car barn and power house of the Canton-Akron Traction company at Canal Dover, O. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

J. F. WALLACE GIVES REASONS For Resigning as Chief En- gineer of Panama Canal

HAD TOO MANY MASTERS

BE TELLS SENATE COMMITTEE ABOUT
ISTHMIAN AFFAIRS

He Claims That a Certain Canal
Official Was Mixed Up In Private Enterprise.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Before the senate committee on interoceanic canals, John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Panama canal commission, testified regarding his resignation and isthmiian affairs. He related the details of his selection as chief engineer and said he made a protest particularly against what he called red tape methods and a multiplicity of masters and then read a long statement. He first spoke of the "violent attack upon me which Secretary Taft and Mr. Cromwell gave to the newspapers last June," and asked that judgment upon the justice of that attack be suspended until he had an opportunity to explain why he thought it was uncalled for. He declared the only basis for this attack was a difference of opinion between them "as to my right to decide for myself when I thought the welfare of the enterprise and my own welfare justified me in resigning my position."

Regarding his interview in New York with Secretary Taft, the witness said: "I told Secretary Taft I had an offer I should like to accept that would give me a compensation practically double that I received from the government. I told him all about the negotiations, as I wanted to disabuse his mind of the idea that I was coming to him to get an increase of salary. I had not accepted the higher salary, nor have I since. I told the company offering me the place that I would not accept unless satisfactory arrangements could be made for me to leave my work with the government."

Witness asserted he found Secretary Taft and Mr. Cromwell had come to the New York interview determined to discredit him.

In reply to questions Mr. Wallace said he felt he was better fitted than Mr. Shoup's for the actual direction of the canal work. He criticized Chairman Shoup's course in giving orders which Mr. Wallace said had not been acted upon by the canal commission.

"That was one of the questions I desired to discuss with Secretary Taft," said Mr. Wallace. "Another thing was Mr. Cromwell's connection with affairs. He had done several things with the railroad property which I questioned and seemed to be the controlling force in the management of the property. I considered he was doing business along dangerous lines."

Mr. Wallace went on to explain that he thought Mr. Cromwell to be mixed up in so many local enterprises on the isthmus that his views might be perverted and if adopted by the commission would be the consequence. One of the acts of which Mr. Wallace complained was that in which he assigned that the Panama railroad the year before it was taken over by the government had declared dividends of $100,000 more than it had earned and had then issued bonds for the rebuilding and improving of the property. This, declared Mr. Wallace, meant that that amount of money had been taken out of the pocket of Uncle Sam. He explained that Mr. Cromwell had been counsel for the railroad and said the action bordered upon high finance.

At Independence, Mo., a three-story brick building on the north side of the city square, occupied by the Mize Hardware company, was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $75,000.

FEAR A STRIKE. Steel Plants and Railways Stocking Yards With Coal.

Pittsburg, Feb. 6.—Fearing that a strike among the coal miners might occur the Carnegie Steel company is preparing for an emergency and is stocking its yards with coal. Thousands of tons of coal are being received at the South Sharon plant of the company daily and it is the expectation of the company to get a supply on hand that will keep the works going two months, if a strike should be precipitated. Other plants as well as railroads are taking similar precautions. The Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and other lines at Pittsburg are among the roads which fear the outcome of a coal strike.

PROMINENT PREACHER A SUICIDE

Charged With Corrupting the Minds of Young Boys—He Took His Own Life.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 6.—Dev. Dr. Geo. Simmons, committed suicide this morning, taking cyanide of potassium. He was the pastor of the First Baptist church, president of two savings banks, originator of Moon, a substitute for coffee, author of a number of religious works, and widely known as a lecturer. He was recently chosen to take charge of ex-Governor Yates' senatorial campaign in the state. Simmons was one of the best known preachers in the west. Not until last week had a word ever been whispered against his personal character. Then a complaint was made to the state attorney that Simmons had been corrupting the minds and morals of a number of small boys who belonged to the Baptist church boys' brigade. A quiet investigation revealed the facts. The editors of local papers called him in and told him if he would leave the city within 24 hours, there would be no prosecution. He consented and resigned as president of the Interstate Bank and Trust company. Then he suicided at his home. He leaves a widow.

Simmons had been preaching since he was 17 years of age. He was born at Shepherdsville, Ky., in 1865, lived on a farm until 13, when he was orphaned. He then went to Louisville and with the aid of friends attended the public schools, afterward taking a course at Georgetown college. He held pastorates at Henderson and at Louisville, Ky., Jackson, Tenn., and Terre Haute, Ind.

"AN OUTRAGE," SAYS LAMB

Senator Denounces Present Board of Review System—For Corporations, He Says.

Columbus, Feb. 6.—"Something will certainly be done to change the present board of review law," said Senator Lamb Monday.

"Why, it is an outrage, as it stands. Think of $20,000 a year for that board in Toledo, and the county auditor drawing $20,000 more, a total of $40,000, in addition to the pay of assessors. And it is really the growth of Toledo and the work of the assessors that are responsible for the increase in the tax duplicate."

"The positions are political, pure and simple. Walter Brown came down here and secured the appointment of his father on the board. I agree with Senator Howe that, in most of the cities, the board was created and the members named in the interest of the big corporations."

KNABENSHUE WILL STARTLE WORLD

When He Demonstrates the Practical
Results of Experiments He is Now Making.

Toledo, Feb. 6.—"I will surprise the world," said Ray Knabenshue in a letter to Charles Strobel, in referring to a number of experiments he is trying in aerial navigation, at Los Angeles.

Mr. Knabenshue believes he has solved the problem of sailing against the wind without dipping his kites. He is also confident he can navigate against any wind other than a gale by his new system.

The other day Mr. Knabenshue was prevented from making an exhibition flight at Los Angeles because of a break in the machinery.

Mr. Strobel announced he has contracted for exhibitions at the Columbus and Detroit fairs.

W. C. Lutz was fatally injured and his wife was badly by a freight engine at a crossing near Galveston, Ind. They were driving protected by a storm buggy and did not hear the train.

TO ABOLISH TAX INQUISITOR

Is Object of Bill Introduced by Mr. Frizell

DEPUTY AUDITOR TO DO WORK

SENATE PASSED BILL FOR BUILDING
A HOME

For Treatment of Crippled and Deformed Children—Other Business Transacted by Legislature.

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Without dissenting vote the senate passed the Harper bill providing an appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a home for the education and treatment of crippled and deformed children. When complete, six trustees shall have it in charge. Within 30 days from the passage of the bill the governor is required to appoint a commission of three members to serve with the governor and the state auditor in the purchase of a site and the providing of the building.

Representative Frizell, of Montgomery, fathers a bill to abolish the office of tax inquisitor and to permit one of the deputy auditors to perform the duties now executed by the inquisitor.

Representative Little of Greene introduced a county salary bill that will probably receive the support of the Republican members. Mr. Little's bill deals only with the auditor, treasurer and prosecuting attorney. These officials are paid directly from taxes collected on the duplicate and therefore should be straight salary offices. The other officials receive their pay in fees collected from private citizens, and are in the fee class. He will treat them in a separate bill, but will, of course, put them on salaries. Mr. Little's bill is based on population, $6,000 being the maximum. Another feature is that the bill provides the amount that may be spent by the auditors and treasurers for clerk hire. Each is required to make up an estimate, at the beginning of the year, of the amount of money which will be required for the ensuing year, and shall present it to the county commissioners. The commissioners shall allow it if they deem it fair; if they think it too large they have the privilege to cut it to an amount they deem fair and necessary.

An agreement has been reached on the patent medicine bill. The house committee on medical jurisprudence will report back a compromise measure, which will require the publication on labels of the amount and nature of poisons or narcotic drugs a proprietary medicine contains, but will not require the making public of the full formula or prescription as the Crawford bill does. This compromise will be drafted in accordance with suggestions by Professor G. B. Kaufman of Ohio State university and Secretary Ogier of the state pharmaceutical board.

More Railway Bills.
The author of the two-cent fare bill passed by the house, Mr. Freiner of Union, introduced a proposition making it the duty of the railroad commissioner and attorney general to assist in enforcing the law prohibiting a higher charge for a short haul than a long haul of freight.

Senator Huffman fosters a proposition which provides that not more than one dollar shall be charged for accommodation on any sleeping, palace or parlor car between points in the state. Representative Tinker is behind a bill that provides that the rate of passenger fare on the B. & W. narrow gauge railroad shall be three cents a mile. This bill has been agreed upon by the railroad committee and is now to pass until after the general two-cent fare bill is passed, so if either is unconstitutional it will be the bill and forcing the narrow gauge to charge higher rates than other roads.

House bills introduced: By Welker of Lima, compelling commissioners to let contracts amounting to more than $50 to the lowest bidder—heretofore this limit was $1,000. Shankland of Lase, to provide for a joint high school by two or more townships where one cannot support the same. Frizell, of Monticello, to create and maintain a technical and industrial school at the Girls' Industrial Home, so as to fit inmates to support themselves when released, and appropriating $10,000 for school building and equipment. Stephenson of Brown, fixing salaries of coroners at $300 to $2,000.

Unsuccessful effort was made to have reconsidered the vote by which the Reynolds bill passed the senate. The bill provides that street railway companies shall heat to a temperature of 60 degrees the vestibules occupied by motorcars and trolleys.

HON. B. G. DAWES AIDS ROUMANIAN

AN ENTIRE FAMILY ALLOWED TO ENTER AMERICA

Except the Mother, Who Was Deported on Account of Affliction of Her Eyes.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Sam Zwelling is a young shoemaker of Zanesville. He came from Roumania four years ago, joining some other brothers who had settled in the Clay City and who were doing well. Not long ago the brothers having prospered desired to have their father, mother and four younger children come to this country from far away Roumania. Money was sent and ten days ago the family arrived in New York on a Dutch steamer. The hopes of a reunion were dashed by the crude inspectors at the Ellis Island landing place for immigrants. The mother was examined by the doctors and found to have an affliction of the eyes which prevented her admission. There was no use of protestations. The father and three children, all under 12, were allowed to land, and the mother was torn from her children and husband and sent back all alone in the steerage to Rotterdam. She knew no one on board the returning ship. She has not a living relative in all Europe. She came from Roumania, but she was held at Rotterdam where she knows no one and knows no language but her own. Sam, the son, came to Washington last Saturday with letters from eminent business men of Zanesville and hunted up his congressman, Beman Dawes. That great hearted member, who has five children of his own, sympathized with the family thus rudely bereaved of a mother's care and took steps to give some sort of relief. Dawes had a talk with Willbur Carr, chief of the consular bureau, himself a son of Ohio, and money was telegraphed the American consul at Rotterdam with which to supply the mother with comforts until the son can go to get her after her affliction is cured. The case is an unusual one and although all of the family are strangers to Dawes he appreciated their grief and will do all in his power to help them out. Dawes cabled the United States consul to put Mrs. Zwelling under the care of a doctor so that the disease might be cured.

The Zwelling brothers of Zanesville are hard working, good citizens and are willing to do anything that their mother may yet come here restored to health.

Postmaster Roemer of Zanesville who was recently appointed to succeed Fenton Bagley, arrived in Washington Sunday for a conference with the Postoffice Department and also to have a talk with Congressman Dawes. As yet he has not been confirmed, but that is a mere matter of time. The confirmation of a postmaster depends on the approval of the senators and they may want to consider the appointment of any man, especially for such an important office as that of Zanesville.

The Ohio delegation decided on a silver loving cup as a wedding gift for Nick Longworth and his bride. The suggestion of a punch bowl was all a joke intended to worry Webber, the Philistine member, who belted Herdick last fall. After the fun was over and Webber had made a protest the committee picked out a beautiful loving cup and it will be engraved as coming from Nick's Ohio colleagues. Of course there might be the same objection by a temperance man to a loving cup as to a punch bowl. It is not supposed that a loving cup is used for cold water on festive occasions any more than a punch bowl is used for bouquets, but the name sounds a bit better to sensitive ears. The Ohio members will attend the wedding proper, also the reception.

YOUNG YERKES IS DISPLEASED

And a Suit May Be Filed to Oust Mrs.
Yerkes-Mizner from the New York House.

New York, Feb. 6.—As an outcome of the marriage of Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes and Wilson Mizner, word has come from Chicago that suit may be instituted by the executors of the Yerkes estate to dispossess Mrs. Yerkes from the Fifth avenue mansion.

Charles E. Yerkes, son of the dead millionaire, according to the information received here, favors the suit. Young Mr. Yerkes is said to be greatly displeased at the marriage of his stepmother, so soon after his father's death. Yesterday he conferred with the lawyers of the estate at Chicago and it is said the proposition to compel Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner to leave the Fifth avenue mansion was broached. The will provides that the widow may have the house for her "personal use" during life, after which it shall become a public art gallery. Inasmuch as Mrs. Yerkes-Mizner has married, her stepson holds that she has forfeited her right to occupy the house unless she lives apart from her husband.

A. H. Joline, who is Mrs. Mizner's counsel, said that he had not heard of any threatened suit against her. "There couldn't be anything of the kind," he said. "The will does not specify that she shall remain single to enjoy the benefits of the Fifth avenue property or any other portion of the estate. Mrs. Yerkes will, so far as I know, continue to live in the Fifth avenue mansion. There couldn't be any way to get her out if she wanted to remain."

A report in Chicago that Mrs. Mizner purposes contesting the will so as to secure a larger portion for herself, has stirred up Clarence E. Knight, Louis S. Owsley and young Mr. Yerkes. Mr. Owsley, who is an executor of the will, left for New York on Monday night after conferring with Mr. Knight. He will consult Mrs. Mizner to see what she intends doing.

Mrs. Mizner through her husband, denied that she has any idea of contesting the will.

There is not the slightest foundation for that report," said young Mr. Mizner. "My wife announced shortly after the death of her former husband that she was perfectly satisfied with the conditions of Mr. Yerkes' will. Why shouldn't she be? The two consulted together before it was drawn, and Mrs. Mizner was familiar with its every provision. As a matter of fact every suggestion that she made was carried out in the will as it was finally drawn."

"Again I want to emphasize the fact that this marriage will have no effect whatever upon the administration of the estate. Mrs. Mizner is perfectly satisfied and I can assure you that I will be the last person in the world to make a contest. She has all in the world that she needs, and as for myself I have managed to live pretty well during the 29 years of my life."

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance. It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair. The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burning germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness. Newbro's Hairdressing is the only known restorer of the scalp, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use. Herpelde makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure. Acent no substitute—there is none. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpelde Co., Detroit, Mich.

FLINT GLASS WORKERS ACT

WILL MAKE AN EFFORT TO SECURE
MODIFICATION
IN LAW

Regarding Employment of Boys Under 16—Delegations Will Wait Upon Legislature.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 6.—The American Flint Glass Workers Union of Eastern Ohio and the Ohio valley, will ask the Ohio legislature to modify the law regarding the employment of children under 16 years of age in glass factories and will send a delegation to Columbus to appear before the legislature and see what can be done in modifying the present law.

On Saturday and Sunday all the locals of both the A. F. G. W. U. and the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association. The cause of the action of the locals, and all elected a delegate to go to Columbus, and passed a resolution to ask for an amendment to the child labor laws. They will ask that boys under the age of 16 be allowed to work eight hours a day in two shifts and not be employed after 11 o'clock at night.

is on account of the arrests in the past few weeks of the head of departments in almost all of the factories in Eastern Ohio and the valley, and having them fined for employing boys under 16 years of age. The law is very strict and provides that all fines go to the state school fund. Many of the boys support families by their work as was shown in the two arrests in Bridgeport. Then boys often secure work by telling the employer that they are past 16 and parents have been known to have also stated this so that their children could be employed. The law to evade misrepresentation provides that the child show the employer a certificate from the superintendent of the schools stating that he is at least 16. But often the factories are short of boys and in their rush to get out their orders they fail to require this from the child and later they have to pay a fine. The locals in Steuben will send a strong and influential delegation to Columbus. Beldaire and Bridgeport held their meeting Saturday and will also send delegates. It is said that every local will be represented, and that some of the national officers will also be present at the conference with the legislative committee.

"THOU SHALT NOT KILL"

(Communicated.)

Editor Daily Advocate—Dear Sir: The Ohio law makers are treating the Christian people of the country to a remarkable lesson in morality. A bill was introduced by a female doctor to have a law passed to justify the violation of the command, "Thou shalt not kill," and it has actually found many supporters. In connection with this is another bill that has been taken up and is likely to pass. This provides that there shall be no legal murder. Taking both together a man might ask if our representatives contemplate to do away with some of their obnoxious neighbors or have they in view a tardy legacy depending on the demise of decrepit and suffering relatives? The suicide and legal killing bill, mentioned in the first place, would have as reverse the positive divine law which teaches that "thou shalt not kill" and only those who represent Him in power, such as the state, can under just necessity, take away man's life. But not alone are our legislators. Our virtuous press, like one of our Newark evening journals, has come out boldly in defense of an easy-killing law and intimates that only old fogies like these flagellants of the dark ages, could object to a measure that humanitarianism regard as merciful when applied to irrational beasts. Then why should any lover of a people, foetier or brindle bull call in to question the righteousness of a law that would end his own misery when he appeals to it to end the sufferings of his dumb friends, and faithful four-footed companions? Is it because a man is a biped that he must claim immunity, or that he opposes a law that a staff of the learned medical profession with a lady at its head, intends only for the benefit of suffering humanity? Scripture talks about life and death being in the hands of God alone, might he all well enough in the time of Moses, and later on while Paul was on earth, (See Rom. 2 and 9, 1st Cor. 4 and 10) but such antiquated notions of the kind must give way like other things to human progress. The thing that cradles the law and the forerunner who gets the consent of those who are of the legal age to give it, are not punished. Then why not legalize a merciful ordinance that would end suffering intolerance? In fifty years, according to the Newark editor, the measure will likely be passed, and then we, who are among the modern dark-age bigots, will be turned into a heap of dishonored dust if dead, or scolded to pieces with cross cut looks of scorn, if per accident we shall have escaped thus far the wrath of the law. Oslar and the rampant fury of the editorial chloroformer

But perhaps I should not have mentioned the name of Dr. Oslar, who has recently declared that he is not so progressive as to advocate such easy stoppels as shortening of breath to remain short. If this be so, I shall leave all the honor where it belongs with Frau Annie S. Hall, and her charming associates. In the meantime I shall continue to believe with Job (Chap. 33: 4) that "the spirit of God made me, and the breath of the Almighty gave me life," and that, in His Hands are life and death.

Yours sincerely,

ALTER JOB.

DEMOCRATS TO RESIST IT

Patterson's Resolution Before the United States Senate.

OPPOSES ACTION OF CAUCUS

Congressman Grosvenor and Others
Detect Alleged Imperfections in the Railway Rate Bill and the Former Offers An Amendment—Other
Doings of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The staid senate was treated to a distinct sensation by Mr. Patterson (Dem., Colo.), who followed up his retirement of last Saturday from the Democratic caucus by introducing in the senate a resolution in effect declaring the action of the caucus to have been contrary to the constitution of the United States. Apparently the action was unexpected on the part of a majority of the senators and they listened attentively as the reading of the rather long preamble progressed, evidently not a little concerned as to what should come next. Mr. Patterson made no effort to secure the privilege of discussing the resolution today, but gave notice that he would address the senate upon it the first available day. It is understood that the Democrats generally will resist the adoption of the resolution and the Republican senators will sustain Mr. Patterson's contentions.

In an interview Senator Patterson, of Colorado, made the following statement: "I am a Democrat in every fibre and could not become a Republican. But my Democracy runs in parallel lines with that of William J. Bryan. I heartily support every Democratic measure President Roosevelt is advancing and he is working harder now for Democratic measures than for any other. The resolution I offered in the senate announces sound Democratic doctrine. I was forced to defend myself by the action of the Democratic caucus and in that defense I but call to my aid Democratic principles that cannot be gainsaid."

Fault was found with the rate bill in the house, considering the fact that it is a measure of both parties. Mr. Littlefield of Maine pointed out the drastic and far-reaching effect of its provisions. The committee, he said, had gone much farther than the president had recommended and much farther than he was willing to go. He would not vote for the bill. Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio ridiculed the alleged popular demand for the legislation, picked flaws in the construction of the bill, complained because no amendments were to be allowed and concluded with the statement that he should do his best to get the bill out of the house at the earliest possible moment, which was taken to mean that he would vote for it. Ten other speeches were made, all of them by members who will vote for the bill, but some of whom would like opportunity to amend the measure.

Mr. Grosvenor said he should propose an amendment to correct what he regarded as the real evil. His amendment would prevent railroad companies and officers from owning productive interests along their own lines. Another fault Mr. Grosvenor found with the bill was that it did not include the regulation of sleeping cars and dining cars.

CALLED ON GIRL; KILLED BY MOTHER

Awful Tragedy in West Virginia in Which Woman Fatally Cuts
Young Man's Throat.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 6.—Information comes from Flint Run in Wirt county, that Mrs. Robert White killed Ed. Deavers, by cutting his throat with a butcher knife at her home. Mrs. White's daughter was wooed by Deavers and favored him, but a young man named McCauley also sought her hand, and was favored by her mother. Saturday afternoon both men called at the same time and had a desperate fight in which Deavers was victor. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Deavers went to the White home to see the girl and her mother met him at the door. She forbade him to enter, but he persisted, whereupon it is claimed, she grabbed the butcher knife and cut his throat. Deavers walked some distance from the house and fell dead.

Some people in New York are finding fault because there is no snow there. After the first good storm they will all be kicking because there is too much.

SPEAKER GIVES STEFFENS ADVICE

THE MUNICIPAL REFORM WRITER
INTERVIEWED BY
"UNCLE JOE"

And Found That Individual a Master of Sarcasm, One of Several "Discoveries" He Made.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Lincoln Steffens, whom the New York Sun characterizes as an ardent itinerant expositor and a peripatetic discoverer, has made one discovery since he has been in Washington that he has not chronicled. This is that Speaker Cannon, clad in homespun jeans though he may be, is a master of sarcasm.

Mr. Steffens discovered that Cleveland is the best governed city in the United States, while Cincinnati is—or was—the worst governed. Mr. Steffens came to Washington a few weeks ago and discovered congress. Speaker Cannon is an important adjunct of congress and Mr. Steffens sought an interview with him.

The speaker, having just put the finishing touches on the trimming given the Babcock insurgents, and was in an unusually amiable frame of mind and submitted to the interview. The interview was no light affair. It dealt with basic principles and there was much in it about constitution, functions, prerogatives, elemental rights, inherent tendencies and the like. The speaker was sitting squarely on the back of his neck and had consumed eleven cigars by the time the ordeal was over, and Mr. Steffens had discovered a lot of things. Then came a more momentous discovery. "Uncle Joe" lowered his feet, pulled himself together and, rising, laid a paternal hand on Mr. Steffens' shoulder.

"Mr. Steffens," he said, "you are a mighty bright young man. You yield a ready and facile pen. I might even call it trenchant. I am glad you came to Washington—glad for your sake and for the country's."

"Mr. Steffens," the speaker's voice grew even more earnest, "do you know what I would do with you if I owned you? By that I mean if I had control of you as your publishers have. Well, I'd keep you here in Washington quite a spell. I'd give you plenty of time to go to the bottom of things. I'd have you study a great deal of law, saturate yourself with Blackstone as it were, and then I'd have you take up the constitution and study that in the light of the law you had learned."

"And then I'd have you turn your attention to the organization of this government—take the various departments to pieces and put them together again, as it were. And then I'd have you take up our public men—the President, the members of his cabinet, and the leaders of congress—and subject them to the closest scrutiny—sort of turn an X-ray on them, as it were. And then"—a long pause—"after about ten years I'd have you write something to write."

THREE MEN HURT BUILDING RUINED

AND FIREMEN FROZEN TO THEIR POSTS OF DUTY.

Were Features of a Stubborn Fire
Which For a Time Threatened Important Portions.

Philadelphia, Feb. 6.—Three men injured, a four story building practically gutted and firemen frozen to their posts of duty were features of a stubborn blaze which early this morning threatened that part of the city formerly known as the "fire belt."

The injured are Chas. Vandegrift, 19, knocked unconscious by stream of water from hose, carried down a ladder and taken to the hospital.

McLaughlin, thrown from seat on water tower wagon, struck on head.

Edward Lanigan, engineer of the fire engine, cut about face by bursting of tube on engine; taken to the hospital.

The fire started in the third floor of the four story building at 405 and 107 Market street, occupied by Glace, Hall & Co., dry goods jobbers.

Three alarms were sent in and the street was soon filled with engines and firemen. Ladders were run up to the top story and at every ten rounds firemen were placed. The streams from the hose dashed against the walls and flew over the men in a spray, which, freezing as soon as it struck them, locked them to their posts in an icy grasp.

The walls of the burning building, as well as those on each side soon became sheets of ice and the men and horses also found the street like a frozen lake.

A thrill of terror swept over the thousands of spectators when a ladder upon which five firemen were rolically striving to get control of the flames was seen to sag toward the burning structure. For a moment it seemed as though the men would be hurled into the flames but they pluckily held fast to the rungs and the ladder was righted. The loss was about $50,000.

GORMAN IS GETTING EVEN

Motive for Senator's Attack on the Baltimore & Ohio Seen—Railroads Broke Promises.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 6.—United States Senator Arthur D. Gorman's attack on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, in which he seeks to make the railroad account for about $3,000,000 alleged to be due the state of Maryland has met with great popular interest. Senator Gorman is the state of Maryland's director in the road, the state being a large stockholder in the Washington branch.

He has reported to the general assembly that the railroad has diverted interest that should go to the stockholders of the Washington branch to uses on the main line and that the $1,500,000 given to the Washington road for abandoning its old station at the capitol has been placed to the account of the main line. An accountant is to be engaged to look into Baltimore & Ohio book-keeping.

There has been a suspicion that the Baltimore & Ohio anxious to way the state's 5,500 shares of Washington branch stock at a minimum price, was doing all in its power to make financial showing of the latter property as unfavorable as possible. Governor Warfield, political opponent of Gorman, has favored the sale of the stock. Talk at Annapolis has it that the Baltimore & Ohio and likewise the Pennsylvania railroad promised Senator Gorman assistance in his Poe amendment fight last fall and then went back on him a few days before election. Now it is said he intends to show them that that was short-sighted policy on their part.

SECRETARY MOODY TAKES THE STAND

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Attorney General Moody appeared as a witness in the beef trust case this morning to prevent a subpoenae against President Roosevelt to produce the original of a letter written by the President to Mr. Moody during the investigation by Commissioner Garfield. Moody said that when asked by the packers' lawyers to produce the letter that it had passed beyond his control. He read a copy and then withdrew his consent to its introduction. Moody is likely to be called to the stand later.

Colombia Renews Demand.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Colombia has again renewed her demand for recompense from the United States because of the separation of Panama. This last application was submitted to Secretary Root recently by Senor Diego Mendoza. It is said to be in general terms similar to the presentment originally made by General Reyes, the present executive head of Colombia, when he was in Washington last year as a special commissioner and minister from Colombia. While this last presentment is in the nature of a claim against the United States government the amount of the damages sustained by the parent state on account of Panama's secession is not set down. Secretary Root has the last note under consideration, but it is believed that nothing has occurred to change the position originally taken by the state department in this matter, namely that the United States was in no way responsible for the separation of Panama.

DeCastellanes in Court.

Paris, Feb. 6.—Comte de Castellane, formerly Anna Gudd, has entered a plea for divorce. Representatives of the countess and the count appeared before Judge Henry Dite, of the court of first instance, who, in conformity with the French law, endeavored to arrange a reconciliation before allowing a definite suit to proceed. It is said on unquestionable authority that Judge Dite's efforts were not successful, the countess absolutely declining to resume her relations with her husband, and that after repeated but vain attempts by Count de Castellane's advisors to arrange a settlement the representatives of the count and countess left the court and that the suit will proceed. Another effort at reconciliation will almost certainly be made before the suit comes to trial in the ordinary course.

Bankers Arrested.

Boston, Feb. 6.—Charged with using the mails to further a conspiracy to defraud Foster Hopper, vice president of the Haverhill bank, was arrested here on a bench warrant issued by the United States district court of New Jersey. Hopper was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hale and held in bonds of $5,000 for a hearing on Feb. 15, when the question of returning him to New Jersey will be decided. The arrest of Hopper followed closely upon the arrest of John S. White, head of the Imperial Trusts company of New Jersey and others in New York. It is alleged that Hopper was concerned in a conspiracy to defraud the Scranton, Factoryville and Tunkhannock Railroad company out of $4,000.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The evangelistic meetings at the Central Church of Christ are starting off with promise of good results. There was an encouraging attendance last night, and an excellent spirit pervades the services. Miss Ruth Hall, who arrives today, will take charge of the large chorus, and furnish special music at each service. All are cordially invited to attend.

Law Offices Removed.

John M. Swartz has removed his law office from 27 1-2 South Park to the room lately occupied by Lida Ball as a millinery store, over the Franklin National bank. This change was made because Mr. Sites is about to make extensive changes in the building on the South Side. It is said that the entire building is to be occupied by A. M. Glick by the first of April.

Lights at the Auditorium.

The managers of the Auditorium have placed a number of lights in the court on the north side of the Auditorium just outside of the fire escape. This lights up the entire exterior of the building on the north side and does away with the possibility of an accident which might result from the darkness while the fire escapes are being used. Other improvements providing for the safety of the patrons of the popular play house will be added as they are required.

U. B. Revival.

The service last night was the most precious of the two weeks service. It was an old time bread breaking service during the performance of which almost all the congregation were moved to tears. Seven were at the altar last night. Tonight the famous Tissot pictures of the Life of Christ will be shown, affording an hour and a half entertainment. In order to give those who work late opportunity to see, the doors will be opened at 6:45 and the service will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

On the Canal.

Albert Cowan, a colored gentleman, Officer Jamison a merry chase across the frozen canal Monday night. It was a regular "Eliza crossing the ice" scene and all that was lacking was the ferocious blood hounds and the orchestra music. Albert had been cutting capers in a South Fourth street saloon and the disturbance was quelled by the police. Albert confessed to the court that he was a bad man. The court said "Ten and costs and the stone pile." He was taken back and set to work.

Meeting of U. R. K. of P.

VALUE OF WANT ADS.

"Hello! Is this the Advocate?"

"Well, this is Miss Smoke talking. I got my bracelet all right. I advertised in the 'Lost' column of the Advocate last night and it was returned to me a short time after supper. I want to thank the Advocate for helping me to find it."

That in brief tells the story of the value of the cheap want columns of this paper. Miss Laura Smoke paid 25 cents for three insertions of a three line ad to recover a beautiful gold bracelet with amethyst sets, which she lost at the Auditorium. Let us help you recover your lost valuables. Such conversations as the above are frequent in this office.

According to a Washington report Senator Dick has been to the White House to confer with the President who is believed to have summoned the senator there for the purpose of smoking him out, the senator having an inclination to oppose the Philippine tariff bill which is in danger of defeat in the senate. Dick seems to have changed somewhat in his attitude toward the White House, for there was a time when he was summoned there and dodged about to avoid going.

Mr. Jacob Riss, a close friend of the President who recently in an interview in Toledo said that the President would probably run again for the office because of public demand, has been the President's guest in Washington, and there he is reported to have said that his ambition is to see President Roosevelt mayor of New York when he rounds out his term in Washington. The Toledo statement of Mr. Riss is said to have greatly annoyed the President, but for all that Jacob seems to keep tight on talking whenever opportunity presents itself.

FAMOUS OHIOAN'S GRAVE NEGLECTED

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Representative Elijah Hill has been informed that the grave of Salmon P. Chase in Spring Grove cemetery at Cincinnati is in a state of neglect.

If he finds that this information is correct, he will introduce in the house a bill to appropriate sufficient funds to erect a suitable monument over the grave of the distinguished Ohioan. Mr. Hill hardly can believe that the grave of the former governor, secretary of the treasury, chief justice of the United States supreme court and rival of Lincoln for the presidency has been suffered to fall into neglect. He has instituted careful inquiry at Cincinnati.

DRANK NO WATER FOR 48 YEARS

Aged Kansas City Woman Who is in Excellent Health Says Adam's Ale Makes Me Sick.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 6.—"Water makes me sick. Some times the mere sight of it nauseates me." That is the reason Mrs. Sarah Mills of Oden, Utah, gives for not having drunk water for 48 years. Mrs. Mills is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. F. Rawlins, at 1216 East Ninth street. She is 74 years old and lives as a cricketer. "My abstinence from water is not a matter of rule," she said. "I simply don't care for water as a beverage and after having gone without it for a few months and suffering no ill effects, I got so I never thought of drinking it any more than I would think of taking a glass of poison. And it is a sort of poison to my system. When I was a little girl I remember that often a glass of water would make me deathly sick."

"What do you drink as a substitute for water?" was asked of Mrs. Mills.

"Tea, coffee, lemonade and in the summer beer are my principal beverages. But even of these I drink sparingly. Somehow I don't crave liquids. When I am not feeling well I can go hours and hours without drinking anything."

"Do you drink tea or coffee whenever you are thirsty, Mrs. Mills?" "No, indeed. I am not addicted to tea drinking at all, as one might suspect I would be. I rarely drink more than one cup a day, usually at dinner and never between meals. It is the same with coffee. Milk I never touch. You are making quite an oddity of me by your questions, when the fact is that my drinking habits have never before occurred to me as freakish."

Mrs. Mills was feeling indisposed. She said that when she sat down to luncheon she felt worn out, having traveled much recently.

"And do you know that the mere pouring of water at the table made me feel worse," she said. "I thought for awhile that I should have to leave the table."

"I can not state the scientific reason for my loathing of water, having never consulted a physician on the subject. Some people have suggested that it is all imagination; that I have got so in the habit of refusing a drink of water that to drink one after all these years of abstinence would affect me psychologically and in no other way. That is not true. Water seems to poison my whole system and that's all there is to it."

Mrs. Mills is active for her age. "The doctors who preach that water is a cure-all and that whoever drinks water in abundance is not likely to catch cold or get sick otherwise could hardly point to me as a proof of the soundness of the doctrine," she said.

CUBA WILL SPEND $25,000 FOR GIFT

For Miss Roosevelt on Occasion of Her Wedding—President Not Entirely Pleased.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Miss Roosevelt yesterday was informed that the $25,000 recently appropriated by the Cuban congress to buy her a wedding gift had been cabled to Paris and would there be expended in the purchase of the finest diamonds which that sum would buy.

The President is not entirely pleased that such a large sum should be expended by Cuba, but he could not, without appearing ungracious, do anything to prevent it. He has, however, requested his daughter to express no preference in regard to the gift which will be purchased, so today she was compelled to decline expressing a preference either for a dog collar, a necklace or pendants.

The gift will be sent direct to the Cuban minister here, Senor Quesada, and so avoid the payment of duty. This is the program which all the foreign powers will adopt.

At the request of Miss Roosevelt, Mr. Longworth has accepted fewer invitations for stag dinners than most popular bridegrooms. The Ohio congressional delegation will give a stag celebration on the 15th, and Thomas Nelson Perkins, the best man, has bespoken a date in behalf of himself and the ushers.

Berlin, Feb. 6.—Emperor William's gift to Miss Alice Roosevelt on the occasion of her wedding will be a beautiful, artistically wrought bracelet.

NO PUBLIC NOTICE OF PRIEST'S LETTER

Will be Taken by President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State University.

Columbus, Feb. 6.—No public cognizance will be taken by Dr. W. O. Thompson president of Ohio State university, of the letter addressed to him by Father A. M. Leydon, relative to the alleged misconduct of two nuns, who wore the garb of nuns at a promenade last week. Beyond this, Dr. Thompson would not discuss the affair. He said that he had acknowledged the receipt of the letter to Father Leydon.

The latter said Monday evening that he had not yet received President Thompson's answer, but felt assured that he would speak to the offending girls and see that there would not be a similar occurrence. He said the letter was sent to President Thompson because he knew that the president of the university has the best interests of the institution at heart and wishes to advance it.

HAND MANGLED BY CUT OFF SAW

Junction City, O., Feb. 6.—While operating a cut-off saw Monday morning at F. W. Gumsier's lumber plant, John Beach suffered a very painful and serious accident. By some means in handling pieces of lumber his hand came in contact with the saw, mangle all his fingers more or less, but the index and little fingers received the most injury. His injuries were dressed, and in the opinion of his attending physician his hand will not be permanently disabled to any great extent.

THE TEMPERANCE BILLS

Fourteen So Far This Session and There May Be More.

GENESIS OF THE BRANNOCK LAW

Chief Object of Anti-Saloon League This Session Is to Substitute Petitions for the Ballot Box in Removing Saloons.

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Two years ago when the legislature was overwhelmingly Republican in both branches, only one temperance measure of very great importance claimed attention. That was the Brannock local option bill, originally designed to extend to city wards local option facilities therefore provided for townships and municipalities.

It was found possible to bring about local option elections in cities like Mt. Vernon, Cambridge, Nunda and some smaller municipalities, but it was never seriously believed that action for a vote on the liquor traffic could obtain momentum to bring about an election in the larger cities, or that such an election would vote the saloons out of any major city in the state. So ward local option was advocated, and ward local option was proposed in the first bill introduced by Mr. Brannock of Clermont county for the Anti-Saloon league.

In opposing ward local option the liquor interests suggested that not near so much objection would be made to the residential district scheme known as the Minneapolis plan. Singularly enough, when the fight was made in the house six years ago for the Clark ward option bill, Representative C. P. Griffin of Toledo (now deceased) opposed the Clark bill and suggested the Minneapolis plan as a substitute for ward option.

When this proposition was practically reiterated by the liquor interests two years ago the Anti-Saloon league seized upon the suggestion, and out of that grew residential option districts in Ohio through a substitute bill introduced by Mr. Brannock.

This year, with the house Republican by the narrow margin of three votes, and with the senate tentatively Democratic by alliance with one independent senator, temperance measures are numerous, 13 having been introduced in the house so far, with probably more to follow.

These are the Aiken bill to increase the Dow tax from $350 to $1,000 per year; the search and seizure bill of Mr. Woods (Rep.) of Medina, an Anti-Saloon league bill on the house calendar for Wednesday; the bill of Mr. Briggs (Rep.) of Fulton to permit voters to vote at local option elections advocated by the W. C. T. U. and backed by petitions signed by 150,000 men and women; by Mr. Wynne (Dem.) of Cincinnati to prohibit minors working in places where liquors are made, bottled or sold; by Mr. Woods (Rep.) to make it unnecessary for the state to prove that saloon-keeper knowingly sold to minor, or other prohibited person; by Mr. Roberts (Dem.) of Cleveland, forbidding sale of liquors in public dance halls; by Mr. Spangler (Dem.) of Henry; and Dermuth (Rep.) of Paulding, anti-treating bills; by Mr. Vandusen (Rep.) of Huron to debar from engaging in liquor traffic in Ohio persons convicted of violating any liquor law, as done in Pennsylvania; by Mr. Vandusen to act aside 25 per cent of Dow taxes to pay damage claims under liquor laws; by Mr. Woodburn (Rep.) of Union to reduce county auditor's fee for collecting the Dow tax; and the bill by Mr. Jones (Rep.) of Jefferson, to amend the Brannock law, and remove saloons from residential districts by petition instead of by ballot. The Anti-Saloon league's chief measure.

One temperance measure originated in the senate by Mr. Rose of Marietta, for county local option.

Which makes 14 bills pending to amend or extend the scope of the state's summary laws.

One of the temperance measures is on the house calendar for this week, and it will serve to try out the sentiment on summary legislation.

The Aiken bill to increase the Dow tax to $1,000 is a special order for Wednesday, and there will be sharp skirmishing because the brewery interests are opposed to the bill and the Anti-Saloon league is taking no part at all, at least not openly. An effort will be made to keep down the tax to $500, falling in which the opposition to the bill will try to find a stopping place anywhere short of $1,000.

Just a little significance is attached to the unsuccessful attempt made to kill the Briggs temperance bill by in definite postponement when it was reported by the committee. This is the bill to permit voters to vote at local option elections. Mr. Crawford of Athens made the motion to postpone consideration indefinitely. Mr. Bense of Ottawa county, although opposed to the bill, objected to the motion because, he said, the difference between killing the bill this way and killing it by a fair fight on the floor is like the difference between stabbing a man in the back and a legal execution. So the Briggs bill went to the calendar and will be made a special order for Feb. 12.

It is apparent that the Anti-Saloon league is desirous of having all temperance measures out of the way before the fight actively begins on its chief measure, the Jones bill.

Just what the Anti-Saloon league hopes to accomplish by the drastic bill introduced for it, by Representative Jones (Rep.) of Jefferson county is one of the problems of the session. No such provisions as are among its chief features were made known or even dreamed of during the campaign. The demand for removing saloons from residence territory by petition instead of by ballot is so radically in advance of campaign fulminations and Governor Patton's recommendations in his inaugural address as to create suspicion, and it is common belief that the drastic features of the Jones bill are but for compromise concessions.

This is an old trick—to ask for more than can reasonably be expected, so that more may be obtained than would be probable if only the things granted were asked for originally. Then, too, the things denied make stalking horses for political outcry and agitation, so valuable to the Anti-Saloon league.

Mr. Wertz of Wayne put a stumblingblock in the way of the partial appropriation bill, and had action on it deferred several days so that members could have time to examine it. He declared that boards of appraisers get salaries, although there is no authority for it in the statutes. He also attacked the perquisites allowed state officials, and estimated that officials who should receive $3,000 salary draw from $5,000 to $9,000.

"I think the people of Ohio have a right to know just what these officials draw," he said. "This way of paying different amounts under different statutes, adding to their compensation from time to time, has gone far enough, I think. And I believe the people are entitled to know what is spent by the bureau of uniform accounting, the state board of pharmacy, the board of medical registration and examination and the state fire marshal instead of appropriating receipts and balances without any figures."

It is found by sifting the statutes that the secretary of state in addition to his regular salary of $2,000 per year receives $1,000 per year as state supervisor of elections, $1,000 more as state supervisor and inspector of elections, and $1,500 per year as member of the state board of appraisers and assessors. There may be other perquisites.

The state auditor in addition to a salary of $5,000 gets $1,500 per year as member of the state board of appraisers and assessors, and perquisites as head of the state bureau of accounting and as member of boards until his total compensation from the state amounts up to $8,000, as much as the governor's salary.

The state treasurer's salary is $7,000 per year, with $1,500 per year as member of the state board of appraisers and assessors, a percentage on loans to banks under the depository law, and probably other perquisites.

Large appropriations for some of the lesser departments appearing in the partial appropriation bill are also under scrutiny, and there is likely to be a lively debate when the bill comes up in the house this week.

There is talk of a legislative investigation to probe for all the facts in connection with the salaries, fees and emoluments of state officials. Governor Patton intimated as much during the campaign and in his inaugural message.

There is also talk of consolidating the department of labor, the department of workshops and factories and the bureau for examining and licensing stationary engineers into one department, which would work a large economy.

Besides which there is also talk of a salary law for state officers such as is proposed for county officers, so that the compensation of state officials will be definite and certain instead of being concealed in acts creating various state functions with state officials as functionaries.

As the mayors have had their say about changes in the code, including a proposition to have city solicitors appointed by the mayors, a meeting of city solicitors will be held here Wednesday. In three of the big cities of the state, Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati, the solicitors are standing for the amendment as it now reads. George S. Marshall, city solicitor of Columbus, is strongly opposed to the measure, and is for the election of the solicitor by the people. The object of calling the solicitors together is to have them take action on this proposition, as the mayors have done.

EMPLOYEES DRAW TWO SALARIES

IT IS CHARGED, ONE FROM THE PAN HANDLE

And One From an Outside Concern Officered by Railroad Employes. Rigid Investigation.

Columbus, Feb. 6.—It is said that the higher officials of the Pennsylvania lines at Pittsburgh have ordered an investigation of certain practices at the Columbus shops of the Pan Handle by which a number of the employees and officials have been devoting time which properly belongs to the Pan Handle, to an outside concern, and have thus been drawing salaries or wages from two companies.

It is alleged that the Columbus Builders' Supply company, located on Buttrick avenue near the Olentangy river, which was organized by Superintendent of Motive Power M. Dunn, Master Mechanic S. W. Miller, his secretary, Edward Reigh and a number of the employees of the Pennsylvania, has been employing men from the Pan Handle shops, whose names now appear on the pay roll of the railroad company. An employee of the Pan Handle shops was heard to say that he was receiving a salary of $100 per month from the Pan Handle and had been receiving wages per hour from the Columbus Builders' Supply company. It is said that a number of other employees of the shops have been in the habit of "checking in" in the morning and proceeding to the plant of the Columbus Builders' Supply company, where they worked at least part of the day. Edward Reigh holds a position with the outside concern, with which it is said, he spends the major portion of his time, but still draws a salary from the Pan Handle as secretary to the master mechanic. It is contrary to one of the first rules of the Pennsylvania for a man in the service to be engaged in outside work and it is thought that if the reports, which have come to the ears of the officials at Pittsburgh are proven to be true, radical measures may be taken to correct the alleged practice.

It is claimed that some of the men who have been working by the hour for both the Pan Handle and the Columbus Builders' Supply company have been put on the salary list of the railroad company in order that the records would not show the practices. It is said that one young man for several days "checked in" at the Pan Handle shops in the morning and at noon, beating the Pan Handle out of ten hours a day. There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction at the Pan Handle shops on account of the alleged practices, but the men have been slow in criticizing the methods in view of the fact that the officials of the company are interested in the concern.

Some interesting developments are expected. Mr. Dunn, superintendent of motive power of the Pan Handle, speaking in reference to the above, said: "The threatened investigation by the home offices at Pittsburgh has no terrors. Let them investigate. We do not care, as there is nothing for them to find out. There is not a single person employed at the Columbus Builders' Supply company who is on the Pan Handle pay rolls. The only way that I can account for the story is that some one of a few employees who have been compelled to dismiss have thought to make trouble for us by repeating an idle tale."

M. HARRIGAN AT CANTON.

(Canton News.) J. R. Harrigan, who will assume the management of the C-A. lines, made an inspection trip over the interurban lines to Massillon with Mr. Dimmock Friday afternoon and also over the Massillon city lines. Saturday a trip over the interurban lines to Akron was made with Manager Dimmock.

Mr. Harrigan, when asked about the running of the system, said: "I will manage the system for the best interests of the company, which means to the best interests of the people."

He also stated that in about 30 days from the time that he assumes

RECEPTION

Tendered Rev. Richard Wilkinson at New Orleans—Mr. Wilkinson and Wife Well Known Here.

The New Orleans Playmate of January 23, contains a lengthy account of a reception tendered Rev. Dr. Richard Wilkinson and his wife at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ferguson in that city. For the past three years Rev. Mr. Wilkinson has been pastor of the Rayne Memorial church of New Orleans. Recently he was appointed to the Monroe charge in Louisiana, and at the farewell reception tendered him and his estimable wife, there were hundreds of callers, unanimous in their expressions of regret that Rayne Memorial church should lose the pastor who had done so much for the progress of the church and of the activities connected with it.

On this occasion the members of the church presented to Dr. Wilkinson a gold watch chain, with Masonic emblem and his monogram, and a purse containing $120; and the ladies of the congregation presented to Mrs. Wilkinson a dozen each of silver knives and forks, beautifully carved in colonial designs of flowers, and a silver bread tray. Dr. Wilkinson is a son-in-law of Mr. Stewart Barnes of the northeastern part of this country. He will be remembered by many as having preached in various parts of the county at different times.

ARE VICTIMS OF LONG SENTENCES

Believe Members of Legislature Regarding Men Who Got 15 Years For Chicken Stealing.

Columbus, Feb. 6.—Members of the legislature are taking up the "exemplary" sentences by Judge Tyler, of Toledo, imposed two years ago when that official first took his seat on the Common Pleas bench. He sentenced three young men to 15 years each in the penitentiary for an offense which was generally regarded as chicken stealing.

The fact that the thieves broke into the hen house was used in continuing the offense as burglary, and the offenders were given the extreme penalty for burglarizing an uninhabited dwelling. The law has been amended by the present legislature, making the maximum penalty five years, and Governor Pattison signed the amendment Monday.

The victims are William Amenden and George Sheets who broke into a hen house at Weston, O., and William Johnson, who committed the same offense at Holland, O. The heavy sentences were expected to serve as a "warning" to chicken thieves and created much comment.

Senators Lamb of Lucas and Beatty of Wood county, went to the penitentiary Monday to see what could be done. They will appear before the parole board at the earliest opportunity. Mayor Brand Whitlock also is interested in the cases.

Senator Lamb said: "Think of the responsibility that rests on the man who sits in judgment on other men. Think of it. And think of one of those boys, 21 years old, serving 15 years for stealing two chickens."

"And then think," said Senator Beatty, "of Mrs. Chadwick getting 10 years, and of bankers who ruined communities, serving shorter terms."

Senator Beatty is also considering the case of the Zeltner brothers, John and Paul, of Wood county, one serving a life term, the other 15 years, for the killing of Attorney Westenhaver and of a deputy sheriff.

W. R. HARPER'S GREAT MONUMENT

Is Chicago University, to Which He Gave His Life, While Rockefeller Gave of His Millions.

The following article taken from the editorial columns of the Saturday Register, is but another proof of the high esteem in which the late Dr. William Rainey Harper, president of the University of Chicago, was held by all familiar with his great work. The Cleveland Plain Dealer, referring to the death of the late President Harper of Chicago university, has the following concerning a letter which President Harper wrote at one time:

"When I left my work in New Haven to come to Chicago," he wrote his friend, "I was laying greatest emphasis on the scholarly side." On reaching Chicago he had to turn aside for the next ten or twelve years to secure money for the university. The result of his success in doing this gave him the reputation of being a money getter, although he had an antipathy for that work and love for the other. The scholar mourned the fact that he was to be remembered chiefly for his unqualified success in securing money for his beloved university. That was the tragedy of his life. But it is a tragedy of success. His theory of his duty to mankind was thus stated: "So far as my touch with life goes, the big thing to do is to increase the sum of human knowledge and the means of gaining knowledge." As the organizer and directing mind of a university President Harper did more toward the accomplishment of that "big thing" than he could ever have done as Professor Harper, one of the greatest Hebrew scholars in the world. "There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will."

President Harper's monument is Chicago university. No other name has been so closely identified with it as his was during all his active career there, and as long as the university stands he will be remembered in connection with it. He was "great in the things done rather than in the things said," as was remarked once of General Grant. Mr. Rockefeller has given millions of dollars to that university, but Mr. Harper gave it his life, and what would a man take in exchange for his life? Money does not count; brains and health do count and President Harper gave his health and his brain to building up this magnificent educational institution.

AN APPEAL TO REASON

Common sense is the key to Good Health. Yet how many of us use good judgment?

How we all neglect the first symptoms—the beginnings of disease. But let us have just one severe illness, and how glad we are to get well. Then afterwards what good care we take of our health. Nine-tenths of all our great afflictions, our chronic diseases, can be prevented. They start as simple ailments—all have the same cause—uric acid. It causes rheumatism, neuralgia, eczema, catarrh, kidney trouble, heart disease.

THE PROVEN THEORY OF URIC ACID POISONING

You of course know the uses of the blood. How it carries nourishment to every part of the body, and how it picks up all waste matter, and carries it back to be discharged from the system.

Before this waste matter is thrown off it separates into two things—uric acid and urea.

If all the organs are in perfect condition, the blood in taking nourishment to every part of the system carries in addition to each delicate organ, a large amount of uric acid.

Upon any nervous shock, exposure, wet feet, worry, or overwork, this uric acid changes into uric salts, and is deposited by the blood in different parts of the body.

It settles in the joints, causing rheumatism—in the urinary membranes causing catarrh and stomach trouble—in the heart region causing heart disease, and so on.

Uric acid is thus the cause of nine-tenths of all chronic human ills.

NATURE'S WARNINGS OF TOO MUCH URIC ACID
Headache, poor digestion, biliousness, shortness of breath, dry skin, palpitation, darting pains, dark colored urine, sluggish brain, sleeplessness, and in women menstrual disorders.

R The above symptoms are fore-runners of sickness. Whenever you experience them, or if you already have any of the diseases which follow them, take LIFE PLANT and learn the meaning of sound health. LIFE PLANT cures by removing the cause.

DARLING OF THE GODS.

David Belasco's Japanese drama, "The Darling of the Gods" resplendent in elegant scenery and complete stage settings with a mammoth cast, appeared at the Auditorium Monday night and played to a medium sized audience. The production was worthy of a better crowd as the acting of the leads was excellent and the support was unusually good. Miss Percy Haswell as Yo-San, daughter of the Prince of Tosan was very good, and Robert T. Haines as Kara, prince and leader of the small band of outlaws, around whom the story is woven, was unusually strong, and together with Miss Haswell, responded to many curtain calls. The scenery and stage settings, in fact the entire production, was up to the usual David Belasco standard.

"What is going to happen?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Several things. A number of us are going to meet here tonight to form an antitrust association, and I shall probably be elected president of it."

"Then I expect a committee from the Liberty club. It has been discovered that there are thousands of people in America who don't know the American flag when they see it, and we propose to scatter the emblem of liberty all over the United States. "Aren't you afraid that some of these men may be playing you for a good thing?" asked Mrs. Bowser, as they sat down to the table.

"What! Play me for a good thing?" shouted Mr. Bowser as he held the carving knife in the air.

"Yes. You know you have often been played."

"Woman, what do you mean? Am I to be insulted in my own house and to my teeth? Who has ever played me? Who has ever looked upon me as a man who could be played? Don't try to sneak out of it, but answer me squarely."

"Haven't men come here and pretended they wanted to make you a senator or mayor or governor?"

"Yes; men have come here, but I found out what they were after and gave them the bounce. Played! Played! Mrs. Bowser, get it into your head that I'm no fool. When a set of men start out to play me for a soft soap they've got to get up early in the morning."

"But I don't see why you should meddle with those things you speak of. Why do you do it?"

"I do it because I'm opposed to trust; because I am a liberty loving American citizen; because I am an honest man and want to see an honest government. A man without ambitions is no man at all."

"Well, I hope they won't bamboozle you," she said, with a sigh.

"There you go again!" fairly howled Mr. Bowser as he knocked his plate off the table with his elbow and caused the cook to come running in. "You hope they won't bamboozle me—me, Mr. Bowser—your husband! By thunder, woman, I don't know what to make of you."

"Why don't you?" asked a voice at the foot of the basement stairs, a voice that almost made Mr. Bowser jump out of his shoes.

The front door had accidentally been unlocked, and the mother-in-law had arrived and walked in.

Mrs. Bowser rose up and welcomed and kissed her, but Mr. Bowser's face turned red as he sat and glared at her.

"Samuel," said the old lady and removed her hat and shawl and sat down to the table, "you were doing a heap of loud talking when I arrived what is it all about?"

Mr. Bowser grudgingly named the gentlemen whom he expected to call and announced their objects, as he had given them to Mrs. Bowser, and added:

"Mrs. Bowser was expressing her fears that I'd be bamboozled. If I was regularly nominated in convention for the presidency, she'd think there was some trick in it. What the devil does a woman know about these things, anyway?"

"Samuel Bowser, don't you use an other oath in my presence. You are always getting into scraps, and Sarah knows it and I know it. If there's a woman within a hundred miles of this house who doesn't know more about politics than you do, I'd like to hear her name."

"What! What! Don't talk that way to me!"

"Lain to you! Walk upstairs to the sitting room and take a seat, and when I have finished my dinner I'll have a little talk with you. I just felt it in my bones that I ought to be here tonight."

Mr. Bowser went upstairs and walked to and fro and raged. The cat followed him, and it was a good time to give him a hoist, but he neglected it. He was still walking when his wife and mother-in-law came up, and the latter said:

"Now, don't sweat your collar, Samuel. Sit down and listen to me."

"No one asked you to come on a visit," he retorted.

"I asked myself, and don't you get too sassy or I'll stay a whole year. To begin with, there'll be no antitrust meeting here tonight. The fellows are coming simply to play you."

"I say there will be a meeting!"

"And I say there won't, and that settles it. The Liberty club may come clucking around, but they won't be invited to drink or smoke."

"You talk as if this was your house and I was only a boy."

"Never mind how I talk. I know what ails you and the remedy for it. There's room in this country for an honest man's party, but it won't be organized here. There's the bell, and I'll answer it."

It was a delegation of three men to help organize the antitrust, and the mother-in-law bowed to them and said:

"It's all off, gentlemen. Apply to the nearest saloon."

They hadn't got out of the gate when the Liberty club delegation arrived.

"It's been cut out, gentlemen," said the mother-in-law, with a smile. "Plenty of claret in the house, but none for you."

They were hesitating what to do when the honest men arrived. "Is Mr. Bowser in?" was asked.

"He is, but he can't be played this evening. S'mother evening, perhaps."

"Are you his wife?"

"No. His mother-in-law."

"Then that settles it," said the honest men in chorus, as they almost fell down the steps.

"By the living jingo, madam!" began Mr. Bowser, as she returned to the sitting room, but she walked straight up to him and said:

"Cuddle down, Samuel, cuddle down. Sarah and I are going upstairs for a little talk, and when I come down I want to find you and tell you a few things. If you leave the house I'll hunt you down."

It was two hours later when she came down. Mr. Bowser had taken a seat on the floor to sulk and had fallen asleep. His knees were drawn up, his back humped, and he had the look of an orphan far from lemonade or soda water. The cat lay on his back with his legs up, and there was an atmosphere of homelickness in the room.

"Poor Samuel!" sighed the mother-in-law. "I hate to do these things, but how else can you get along with such a man?"

"I tell you I run this house!" said Mr. Bowser, speaking in his sleep.

"He may, but I guess not!"

"And I'll have who I want here!"

"You think you will, but you see, your mother-in-law is here."

"And if you don't like it you can go to grass!"

"Sleep, Samuel; sleep," said the mother-in-law as she turned away. "I have come to stay a month or more, and you'll need all your strength to stand up under the strain."

M. QUAD.

Strengthened.

"Dearest," he said, "do you know that the average consumption of sugar in this country is seventy-five pounds a year?"

She caramelized an inaudible reply.

"Well, it is," he went on, "and I figure on the basis of the five pound boxes I bought that last year you got 195 pounds ahead of the average."

"No wonder you call me 'Sweetheart,'" she murmured gleefully and ate on—Philadelphia Ledger.

Serious Enough.

"Your daughter is such a frivolous society butterfly," remarked the sedate friend of the family. "Don't you think she would be happier if she had some serious purpose in life?"

"Oh, she has," replied the mother; "she's looking for a rich husband!"—Detroit Free Press.

A Wrong Idea.

"I say, auntie, what's that funny man with the red coat?"

"He's been hunting, dear."

"Oh! He hasn't caught much, has he, auntie?"—Punch.

Damages.

"Archie's new automobile blew up with him on the first trip, and he sued the firm that sold him the machine."

"Did he recover anything?"

"Everything, I believe, but one finger and a part of an ear." (Chicago Tribune.)

M. Fallieres, France's New President

THE election of M. Cleme

mand Fallieres as president of the French republic directs attention to the difference between French and American methods of choosing a chief magistrate.

M. Fallieres was elected by the members of the senate and chamber of deputies in joint session. The two bodies met at Versailles and balloted secretly for a successor to President Emile Loubet.

Each member in turn deposited his ballot in an urn provided for the purpose. There are 391 deputies and 300 senators in France, making 691 members of the two houses, constituting together the national assembly.

A candidate for president must receive a majority of the votes cast in order to be elected. Fallieres received 449 votes out of 518.

Although much popular interest pertains to the election of a president in France, no such political importance attaches to the event as in the United States. In this country the question of which party shall be in power for the ensuing four years hinges on the vote of a presidential election. In France it is possible for several ministers representing different parties to be in office in the course of a single presidential term.

The powers of the national executive are in reality very limited. His chief duties are to entertain foreign potentates and do the honors at certain state or popular functions. Though he has considerable power in theory he does not as a matter of custom and practice exercise it. He is not elected by a popular vote or even by an electoral college representing a popular vote. Though he is supposed to have a veto on bills passed by the lawmaking body, as a matter of fact no president since MacMahon has exercised such a right.

The French president may merely return an obnoxious measure with a request for further deliberation. The president of the United States selects his cabinet without any dictation from congress. In France the president merely acts as the instrument of the chamber of deputies in forming ministries, which represent the political complexion of that body, just as the king of England does in making up a cabinet when the balance of power shifts from one party to another.

The French government has been described as a centralized parliamentary republic. The real governing power is the chamber of deputies. In theory the ministers are appointed by the president and serve during his pleasure. As a matter of practice they are appointed by the leader of the majority in the chamber of deputies and resign when defeated. The term of the president is seven years. But it is seldom that a ministry continues in power over two or three. This is due to the number of factional divisions and party groups. Instead of two principal parties, as in the United States, there are in France the Conservatives, including the few royalists and Bonapartists still left in parliament; the Moderate Republicans, the Radicals, the Socialists and several other divisions.

President Elect Fallieres will take office on Feb. 18 and is the same type of man as the president whom he succeeds. Like M. Loubet, he has risen to distinction from the lowest rank. His grandfather was a blacksmith and his father was clerk in a magistrate's court. He was born Nov. 8, 1841, in Mezin and as a boy at school was so dull that his father predicted he would never make a success in life. He was a lazy sort of youth until just before he reached his majority, when he seemed to awaken to a realization that to succeed he must exert all his energies and he then began to exhibit a boundless ambition. He was called to the bar in the town of Norez and not long afterward became its mayor. Norez returned him to the chamber of deputies in 1876, and he affiliated with the group known as the Republican Left. He soon attained a reputation as an orator and steadily rose to influence. He has held various ministerial positions, and President Carnot made him prime minister, but the cabinet he selected proved unsatisfactory, and he did not retain office long. In 1890 he was elected a senator and in 1895 was chosen president of the senate. In appearance he is stout and rather short, and he is very democratic in his manners. He has a wife, who is quite popular, and a son and daughter. He is fond of hunting and is an adept at killing rabbits and hares. He is noted for always carrying an umbrella, rain or shine.

A REMARKABLE RISE.

How "Jim" Davidson Went From Castle Garden to Governor's Chair.

Little did a Norwegian youth of eighteen who landed at Castle Garden some thirty-four years ago imagine that the newspaper of America would one day refer to him as the "Hon. James O. Davidson."

It was not until he was twenty that he was called to preside over one of the most famous educational institutions of the great northwest, the state of Wisconsin. Yet all this has come true, and the governor of this preserves with care the little piece of cloth in which all his worldly possessions were tied up and slung over his shoulder on that eventful morning when his feet first trod American soil.

In Norway he got all the education which the teachers who traveled from farm to farm could give him, but that was not much, and he knew the three books which they used by heart when he was ten years old. When he left Norway he borrowed the money which paid his passage to the United States, and, reaching Madison, sought a friend and almost penniless he went to work to earn money to pay that passage money back. He worked as a farm hand, as a tailor and as a clerk in a general store and in a few years' time had a store of his own. In 1832 he was sent to the state legislature and made the cause of the people his own. He was

MAYOR McCLEERY SUBMITS FIRST MONTHLY REPORT TO CITY COUNCIL

New City Executive Collected $351 During January—Halsey Franchise Extension Ordinance Up Again—Councilman Beadle Wants New Fire Engine House in East Newark—Auditorium Must Pay Theatre License Says City Council.

Councilmen Joseph R. Moser and Charles Conrad were the only ones of the city dads who were not in their seats last night when President Harry Rosset called the first meeting of the month of February to order. Their absence delayed the passage of the Halsey franchise extension ordinance, as the rules could not be suspended without the consent of all members of the body.

There was but little business of importance at Monday night's meeting, though the regular routine kept the councilmen busy for a half or three-quarters of an hour. Mayor Samuel H. McCleery submitted his first monthly report to the council, showing that during the first month of his administration, the mayor collected $351 in fines and licenses. But few licenses were issued so the sum is made up almost entirely of police court fines.

The annual report of the clerk of the sinking fund trustees was submitted at the meeting last night. The report showed that the receipts during the year were $55,372.21. Expenditures $47,562.66, leaving a balance in the treasury of the fund of $7,809.55. The report was signed by Frank T. Maurath clerk of the board.

The ordinance extending the franchise which was voted to the Halsey company a year ago, came up for second reading. The company asks the right to extend its mains from the factory along Oakwood and Clarendon avenues to the corporation lines. It is understood that the company is drilling several wells in the vicinity of Hanover. Another ordinance provided for the levying of a special assessment for the construction of a sidewalk along the east side of Curtis avenue between East Main and Baltimore streets, was introduced.

Other new ordinances providing for special assessments were introduced for first readings. One provides for tapping of the main sewers in the central part of the city. Another is for the special assessment for the Gay street sewer. The assessment ordinances for the Woods avenue, Locust street and Stansberry street paving were also submitted.

Councilman Beadle came to the front with an ordinance for a new engine house for the East Newark fire department. The ordinance provides for the issuance of bonds for the purchase of real estate upon which the building is to be erected.

A resolution introduced by McNeely instructed the city solicitor to commence proceedings against the trustees of the Auditorium and the managers of the theater to collect the theater license which has not been paid. Another resolution was adopted granting permission to the local Aerle of Eagles to roast an ox on West Main street in front of their lodge room.

Bids were opened for the deposit of the city funds. There were two bidders. The Newark Trust Company and the Licking County Bank company. The former bid 1 1-2 per cent on the deposits with daily balances and the latter bid 2 per cent. The Licking County Bank company was made the depository for city funds, by a resolution which was adopted.

BAD WEATHER COMING--PREPARE

It is predicted that February will be a disagreeable month, with blizzards and cold waves, sandwiching warm spells. This is just the kind of weather that carries off the weak and sickly, and wears down the robust. The safe thing to do is to fortify the system against the effects of coming exposure, dampness and cold. No better precaution against the rigors of winter can be had than Father John's Medicine, because it keeps up the bodily warmth, curing coughs and colds and building the body strong. It not only cures disease, but it supplies the strength and fighting power to resist disease. Father John's Medicine sold at City Drug Store.
